

Rights Measure Signed By Johnson

Pockets of Resistance Remain

Negroes Conduct Rights Law Tests

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The new civil rights law was tested immediately in several areas where racial demonstrations flared in the past, but pockets of resistance still remained in some sections of the nation.

The initial testing occurred shortly after President Johnson signed the historic measure Thursday night in Washington. Civil rights leaders promptly announced plans for additional, more extensive testing of the public accommodations section of the law, particularly in the South.

However, a number of persons objected to the law. Lester Maddox, operator of a segregated restaurant in Atlanta, said he would go to jail before he would serve Negro customers.

In Mississippi, Gov. Paul Johnson said he expected some real trouble there when Negroes seek to desegregate public accommodations.

The first test came in Kansas City a minute after the controversial bill became law. The test failed but apparently laid the groundwork for compliance.

A Negro, Gene Young, 13, of Jackson, Miss., tried without success to obtain a haircut in the basement barbershop at the Muehlebach Hotel where the Congress of Racial Equality was holding its national convention.

Members of CORE immediately staged a sit-in at the barbershop and in the hotel lobby until the barbershop closed at its regular time.

The hotel, the largest in Kansas City, is integrated except in the barbershop, said Val Coleman, CORE public relations representative.

Later, Gus Imbeau, the head barber, said he was informed the hotel management had agreed to try to obtain barbers who were willing to cut the hair of Negro customers.

At Albany, Ga., a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said inte-

June Warmed Up As Month Went Along

While the first half of June gave little promise of helping crops to grow, the second half more than made up for it, according to District Observer Edwin Copeland's weather summary for last month.

Average temperature for June was 66.9 degrees, which is one-tenth degree higher than the 71-year average for June. Rainfall measured 4.16 inches, while the average is 4.02 inches for June. On June 23 a high of 90 degrees was recorded while a low of 35 degrees was recorded June 2. The sun shone 75 per cent of the time in June which is 10 per cent higher than the average.

Less than an inch of rain was needed in June to make the first six months of the year equal the 1963 output of rain, Copeland observed.

In the first half of June the coolness of the weather kept

De Gaulle Seeks Erhard Backing

French President On Visit to Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle came to West Germany's capital today to try again to line up Chancellor Ludwig Erhard behind De Gaulle's policy of independence from the United States and Britain in world affairs.

A high West German official said no sensational results were likely.

De Gaulle brought most of his Cabinet with him—seven ministers — for two days of conferences. Regular meetings of this kind are held every six months under the Treaty of Friendship and Cooperation signed by De Gaulle and former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in January, 1963.

Erhard also had some things he would like to accomplish. West German sources said he wanted to talk about three main subjects:

1. Strengthening his position for any dealings with the Communists. Though prospects for reunification of Germany are remote, Erhard wants any support from France he can get.

2. Providing some political underpinning for the European Common Market. De Gaulle is expected to listen sympathetically, but only providing Erhard proposes nothing that includes Britain or involves yielding any French national power to a supranational body.

3. Getting French cooperation for talks with the United States and other major trading countries in the "Kennedy round" of negotiations to break down barriers to international trade. West Germany is particularly eager to cut tariffs on industrial goods.

Strengthening the Common Market has been uphill work since De Gaulle vetoed Britain's admission just before signing his treaty with Adenauer.

In other action at Lisbon Village Hall, the group voted to send a written request to federal agencies to include Columbiana County in President Johnson's Appalachia program.

Mayors attending last night, besides Ralph Kennedy of Leetonia who presided, were Dean Stockman, Lisbon; Lee Harold, Columbiana; William Ferguson, New Waterford; Ernest Phillips, Summerville, and Stanley Fitch, Salineville.

The group's next meeting will be Aug. 6 at the same place.

Scranton Rips Goldwater's Farm Proposals

Governor Touring Dakotas In Bid For Nomination

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton contended today Sen. Barry Goldwater's farm proposals would "court disaster in the nation's heartland."

Scranton toured the Dakotas —each with 14 delegate votes— in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination. Goldwater holds a commanding lead in delegates.

"My current opponent for the Republican nomination has urged prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program," said Scranton.

"Such statements do more to discredit a responsible Republican approach than all the partisan attacks of our Democratic enemies combined," said Scranton in a statement.

Greeted By Governor, Wife Scranton arrived in Sioux Falls, S.D., Thursday night. He was greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Archie Gubbrud and a huge orange and white balloon.

To the delight of a crowd of some 1,000 persons at the airport, Scranton rode the balloon about 20 feet into the air. He pronounced the ride "terrific, wonderful."

The balloon carried a sign proclaiming "Scranton on the rise."

Scranton had some harsh words for the agricultural policy of President Johnson's administration.

"Nowhere is the limited negative view of American agriculture more evident than in the farm programs of the current Democratic administration," Scranton said.

"It is time we broke the shackles of an outdated economic philosophy and outworn politics," he added. "The ab-

District Law Officers Seek Armed Robber

Lisbon police, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen are hunting a youth who abandoned a stolen car early this morning on Route 30, south of Lisbon, following a chase by Lisbon police.

Sgt. Kenneth McKenzie of Lisbon, on the alert for a car used in an armed robbery in Canton at 3:38 a.m. today, became suspicious of an auto near the Courthouse.

When the occupant saw the cruiser, he turned into the alley south of the courthouse, sped out E. Lincoln Way to Route 30 and tried to elude the officer by pulling behind the Ashland Oil Company station. When McKenzie went around the station to check the suspect tried to drive between the cruiser and some old gas pumps and scraped the cruiser's rear fender. He then turned south onto Route 30 and went into a ditch in the district.

Bells to 'Ring For Freedom' July 4th

In an effort to restore the historical spirit of Independence Day, the Elks Lodge and Salem Ministerial Association are cooperating in a project to encourage people in the community to ring bells Saturday, July 4th, for four minutes, starting at 2 p.m.

Posing prettily (above) beside the city's historic old (1862) bell at the entrance of Centennial Park are Micki Stack, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stack of RD 4, Salem, and Becky Ingram, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Ingram of 857 Jennings Ave., anticipating the bell-ringing event tomorrow.

Salem church bells to ring are the First Baptist, Emmanuel Lutheran, St. Paul Catholic, Episcopal, First Methodist and First Presbyterian. Bells in churches of surrounding communities also will ring for freedom.

The Elks started the "Bells for Freedom" observance a year ago.

Heat Wave

Truckers Wear Knee Pants As N. York Sizzles

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's sizzling heat wave has brought out teamsters in knee-pants, been blamed for stranding sightseers on an aerial ride at the World's Fair and sparked a rent-strike threat at the Empire State Building.

"Distinguished attorneys" are working in their undershirts, said a law firm partner whose offices are at the equator of the 39-floor heat belt in the Empire State Building. The floors have been without air conditioning for a week.

On four working days of this week the temperature went into the 90s. On two days it hit 99. Pavements buckled. Motorists' radiators, and tempers, boiled. Thousands fled the broiling city and headed for beaches.

Air conditioners were turned on full blast and, in a few sections, the electricity went off temporarily, the result of heat tripping automatic switches.

The bare, cool knees of five Teamster union members, — and management's stern disapproval — led to a walkout Thursday of 75 drivers at a Railway Express Agency terminal in Brooklyn.

It would not be proper, said a company spokesman, for housewives to see the knees of the company representatives.

The drivers, who had the support of their local, said Bermuda shorts were just the thing for the oven-hot cabs of the trucks. A shop steward said he made a private survey of housewife reaction and got no complaints.

At the World's Fair a dozen sightseers in two gondolas on the aerial tower ride were trapped in the air for hours when the electrical brakes locked. Officials blamed it on the hot weather.

The "tropic zone" tenants of the Empire State Building met in the law offices of Levine & Broder and 50 agreed to sign a notice they would withhold July rents until business losses could be determined.

A spokesman for the building's management said the needed repair parts were expected over the weekend.

NEA Rights Showdown Due

Vote Set Today On Desegregation

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Five days of backstage maneuvering end today as the National Education Association takes a showdown vote on desegregation.

The 6,172 official delegates will be asked to vote on a motion that all-white teacher associations in 11 Southern states be given just two years in which to get well under way on integration with Negro associations.

The motion, as an amendment to a leadership-sponsored resolution, is expected to be defeated — but only after a verbal battle which may extend into the evening hours on this convention-ending day.

The lengthy debate here has not been between segregationists on one hand and civil rights proponents on the other. Most of the delegates, including many white teachers from the South,

Israeli, Syrian Troops Trade Fire

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Guns rattled for several hours Thursday along the Syrian - Israeli frontier north of the Sea of Galilee in the first major incident since Israel began testing its Jordan River water project in May.

An Israeli army spokesman said two Israeli soldiers and a worker were wounded in five hours of fire between Israeli and Syrian positions in the Huleh reclamation area.

A Syrian army spokesman in Damascus said five Israelis were killed or wounded. He gave no indication of any Syrian casualties.

Each side accused the other of starting the fighting, which occurred in a demilitarized zone long troubled by incidents.

Israel's Arab neighbors have vowed to oppose her diversion of Jordan River water for irrigation. At a summit meeting in Cairo last January they agreed on a plan to cut off the Jordan's headwaters, overriding Syrian demands for direct military action to prevent the diversion.

Dixie Groups Plan Court Challenge Of Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights bill is the law of the land today and civil rights groups immediately began testing whether its sweeping provisions against discrimination can break generations of racial barriers in North and South.

Three hours after the House sent the legislation to the White House Thursday, President Johnson signed it with an appeal to all Americans to "join this effort to bring justice and hope to all our people."

From the South came indications the new law's constitutionality will be quickly challenged. Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson cautioned that he expects "some real trouble" when Negroes seek to desegregate public accommodations in that Deep South state.

Hardly was the President's signature dry before civil rights organizations announced plans to see if the law opens to Negroes the doors of motels, restaurants, theaters that had been closed to them.

"Be ready to make a start—even though a modest one—by July 4th" declared instructions to Southern chapters of the Congress of Racial Equality for probing racial policies in places of public accommodations.

Tested In Kansas City The swiftest test came in the North — in Kansas City. One minute after the legislation became law a CORE sit-in was launched when a young Negro couldn't get a haircut in a hotel barbershop. Down in the South, a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said integrated groups were served for the first time in at least seven Albany, Ga., establishments Thursday night.

Officials charged with enforcing the law are hoping for widespread voluntary compliance. But the government is preparing for courtroom battles and the Justice Department soon will ask Congress for more money to add more lawyers to its civil rights division.

In his address on signing the bill, broadcast by radio and television, the President stressed that the law first relies on voluntary compliance to achieve its goal of striking down racial barriers in employment, schools, voting, public accommodations and federally aided programs.

Climaxed Year Of Effort The White House ceremony—attended by civil rights leaders and the Republican and Democratic leaders who steered the bill on its long, stormy passage climaxed a year of effort to pass the law. The drive to hold increases for Supreme Court justices to $25,000 instead of the $20,000 voted by the House and recommended by the administration was led by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo. He argued that their pay is "out of all proportion" to what Congress members receive.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., countered that this is "hardly the time to downgrade the Supreme Court."

But Allott drew the support of the Senate's Democratic leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, and the Southerners, and triumphed 46 to 40.

The chief justice now receives $35,500 a year and other justices $35,000.

The 600,000 postal employees would get increases averaging 5.6 percent.

Two Killed, Five Hurt In Ohio Crash

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Two persons were killed and five were injured early today in a head-on collision of two cars south of here on U.S. 68 near the Hardin-Logan County line.

The Ohio Highway Patrol identified the dead as the drivers, Harold Eugene Miller, 21, of Kenton, and Roy Eugene Gross, 20, of Sidney.

Injured were four passengers in the Miller car, David Summa, 27; Danny Summa, 2; Kathy L. Sheppard, 7, and Louetta Crowe, 70, all of Kenton, and a passenger in the Gross car, Bruce Alloway, 21, of Bellefontaine.

David Summa and the Sheppard girl were listed in very serious condition at Lima Memorial Hospital with head injuries. The Crowe woman, Alloway and Danny Summa were in fair condition at San Antonio Hospital in Kenton.

The Highway Patrol said Gross' car, headed south, crossed over the center line and struck Miller's northbound vehicle.

through Congress — climaxed more than a year of effort begun by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Johnson said the denial of equal rights and equal treatment to Americans because of the color of their skin can no longer continue.

"Our Constitution, the foundation of our republic, forbids it," he said. "The principles of our freedom forbid it. Morality forbids it. And the law I will sign tonight forbids it."

Even as the President spoke, Gov. Johnson was suggesting that Mississippi operators of public accommodations should defy the law so its constitutionality can be tested.

Senate Votes Pay Increases

Cuts Top Court Boosts Two-Thirds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1.7 million government workers — plus federal judges and members of Congress—are sure of a pay boost now.

The Senate late Thursday removed whatever doubts may have lingered by passing 58 to 21 a $564-million pay-hike bill that is somewhat more liberal than the $533-million measure which cleared the House on June 11. But it jabbed at the Supreme Court by cutting the justices' proposed increase by two-thirds.

Sponsors hope to work out a final version soon after Congress returns July 20 from its recess for the Republican National Convention.

Members of Congress are assured of a $7,500 increase, from the present $22,500 to $30,000, since both versions agree on that.

The Senate defeated all efforts to reduce, eliminate, or defer the hike until the federal budget is balanced.

The Senate bill would boost Cabinet officers $10,000 to $35,000, and allow increases of $7,000 or more for 367 other government executives. The House had voted a $32,500 salary for the 10 Cabinet members.

The drive to hold increases for Supreme Court justices to $25,000 instead of the $20,000 voted by the House and recommended by the administration was led by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo. He argued that their pay is "out of all proportion" to what Congress members receive.

Extension of '64 Coin Date Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mint had no way to keep Kennedy half-dollars out of the hands of speculators, Director Eva Adams said Thursday - but she is determined to torpedo hoarders' hopes for a profit.

Miss Adams told a House Government Operations subcommittee she intends to convince those who hold the halves and other current coins in hopes of profit "that the market will be saturated, and that hoarding is ridiculous because there soon will be no shortage."

One of the best ways, she said, would be to continue the 1964 date on coins beyond this year. She said she believes that a 1792 law requiring annual dates "must be suspended temporarily."

Reapportionment Demands Quality

Unless something is done to improve the quality of metropolitan representation in the Ohio General Assembly, reapportionment of the House of Representatives may create an even greater ill than it seeks to cure.

While it is true rural counties have had a disproportionate voice in the legislature, theirs has been the voice of some of Ohio's most capable legislators.

Now, with nullification of the Hanna amendment almost certain, 48 small counties stand to lose individual representation in the House.

CONTROL will be firmly in the hands of the big-city delegations which, with a few notable exceptions, have contained some of the most inept members of the General Assembly.

The Akron Beacon Journal pointed an editorial finger in that direction last week and reached this conclusion, with which we are in complete accord.

"The 'one person, one vote' decision (of the Supreme Court) confronts both parties with a new responsibility. If they measure up to it, future legislatures will be better than ever. If they don't, the state will be stuck with a legislative majority of nincompoops."

Political parties in some metropolitan counties do a commendable job of screening potential candidates, withholding support from those who don't have what it takes. More often, however, the selection is strictly an "up for grabs" affair with too many incompetents finding their way to Columbus.

While there are some incompetents among the small-county crowd, most rural lawmakers are well known in their home communities and are elected because the people know they're capable.

NOT SO in the big counties where "bed-sheet" ballots bearing hundreds of names in the primaries are thrust upon voters who haven't the foggiest notion of who has what qualifications.

One logical step to help remedy that situation is legislative subdistricting. Under subdistricting, populous counties would be carved into smaller districts of nearly equal population for election of representatives, similar to a city's ward system, for election of representatives.

That by no means is the ultimate solution. But it could go a long way toward averting a situation in which thoroughly unqualified metropolitan legislators, who now follow the lead of their more capable country cousins, are cloaked in an unfamiliar and undesired mantle of authority.

A Worthy Experiment

Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson jointly are heading a revolutionary experiment to raise funds for political campaigns. The Eisenhower-Stevenson Fund Raising Appeal is more than the ordinary pitch for funds and if successful should go a long way toward putting contests on a broad popular basis.

Having twice run against each other for the presidency, both men should know the major difficulties of campaign financing and to start off the drive, a massive direct-mail appeal will go out to Republicans, Democrats and Independents this summer. The money from the Independents will be split between the two parties.

The message of the initial mailing will be that the chief beneficiaries of the campaign expenditure are not the parties but the general public. It also will point out that it is far healthier in a democracy for campaign contributions to come from the public at large than from a few large contributors.

It's sincerely to be hoped that the Eisenhower-Stevenson team gets the support it deserves.

Old Glory on 4th

On the eve of July 4th our thoughts ought to go back to our nation's first Fourth in 1776 when the Continental Congress, assembled in Philadelphia, adopted a Declaration of Independence that made America free.

Salemites will join the rest of the nation tomorrow in observing the 188th anniversary of this birth of freedom and what better way to show our patriotism than by hoisting Old Glory atop the flag pole.

Special Blessing

By Mary DeHoff

The month of June is over. And with its departure has come the arrival of newly married couples settling down to this business of setting up housekeeping.

One such couple has the special blessing of a Cantonian they probably never will know.

I was sitting in the last pew during a wedding when a lady, all smiles, came in and sat beside me. She looked happy and gave the impression she was bursting with exciting news.

Half way through the ceremony she succumbed to her great desire to share her secret. She leaned toward me and whispered:

"No really," I replied, "at least not personally but in a professional way."

"I don't know them at all," she said, "but I was married in this church 20 years ago today and I just had to attend their wedding hoping that my perfectly happy marriage might be a special blessing to them."

How wonderful, I mused. Again this bride would be surprised if she knew of another incident that took place that morning.

I was removing the pew bows when a serene-looking lady came to me and asked if she could have one. As I gave her one, she commented:

"My son went steady with her and I was hoping they would get married. She is a wonderful girl. I'd like to keep a bow for remembering."

I don't know if it is because I am an old sentimentalist or if it is because I crave, most of all, happiness for everyone. But if all brides and grooms, scared and nervous though they be, could preserve the glowing happiness that radiates from the wedding and spend a portion of it each day, there would be enough to last their lifetime.

I am convinced that all marriages would be huge successes if the couples and their parents worked as hard at preserving them as they do getting ready for the wedding.

Any mother of the bride will tell you successful weddings don't just happen. The mountainous details that must be worked out consume weeks of preparation.

Happy marriages don't just happen either. The degree of happiness is determined by the amount of combined effort put into it. It involves an abundance of caring and sharing, giving and forgiving.

Just as the bride and groom carefully consider the necessities of setting up housekeeping, so should they prayerfully ponder the prerequisites of their married life together.

By ROBERT S. McNAMARA
Secretary of Defense

The expenditures of the Department of Defense have a decided impact upon the economic life of many persons and communities. But this does not give us the right to spend the taxpayers' dollars unnecessarily, nor does it give us the right to divert the dollars appropriated for defense to non-defense purposes.

We believe, however, that we owe consideration and help to those communities and individuals who are adversely affected by our decisions. Such help, obviously, cannot take the form of keeping an installation which is no longer needed, or of buying equipment for which we have no use. Nor should we help by allocating contracts on a basis of the financial need of a community.

Contracts must be awarded to the firm which can perform the best job at the best price within the time allotted. As a matter of fact, the law does not permit us to pay a price differential for the purpose of bolstering the economy of any area.

THERE ARE many things that the Department of Defense can do to help communities and individuals adjust to changes caused by the shifting requirements of the defense program. For example, we encourage the participation of small business in the defense program, maintaining small business specialists at our depots to assist small businessmen.

Participation by small business widens economic opportunities within a community. We assist industries in labor surplus areas to compete effectively for defense contracts. We conduct advance planning briefings for industry.

More immediately, we give direct, personal assistance to communities through our Office of Economic Adjustment. This office was established in May 1961, in response to a request of President Kennedy, who said of these dislocations:

"I'm well aware in many cases these actions will cause hardships to the communities and individuals involved. We cannot permit these actions to be deferred; but the government will make every practicable effort to alleviate these hardships, and I have directed the Secretary of Defense to take every possible step to ease the difficulties for those displaced."

This policy has continued under President Johnson.

THE OFFICE of Economic Adjustment has no money to lend or to grant, because none has been appropriated to the Department of Defense for this purpose and because such funds of other federal agencies who cooperate closely with the Department of Defense in softening the impacts of defense change.

The Office of Economic Adjustment has been very successful, however, in aiding community leaders to stimulate enthusiasm and active planning for economic growth, and in helping them to find and apply appropriate federal and state programs to supplement the private financing and initiative available locally. We can cite instances where the new industrial and commercial payrolls exceed the lost base payrolls.

We think we have had enough experience, and enough success, in working with communities to have uncovered or confirmed some cardinal principles of economic adjustments.

THE MORE important of these principles are:

1. Americans will accept a "hand up"; they seldom want a handout. As one municipal council member put it: "If I fall in a well, I will welcome a hand to pull me out. After I'm out of the hole, I don't want you to continue to hold my hand."

2. The opportunity for self-help, the "hand up," can be supplied by a relatively small amount of assistance, provided it is appropriate to the problem and is offered at the right time.

3. No community program will succeed unless it has the enthusiastic support and participation of the major part of the citizenry. Local initiative cannot be generated from outside. It must be cultivated on its home ground by respected local leaders.

4. There is no community, large or small, which has explored fully its potentials for economic growth.

THOSE OF YOU who have read the President's "Message on Poverty" will recognize these same principles in the Economic Opportunity program.

We have also helped our own civilian employees by establishing a policy of offering a job opportunity to every career employee affected by the closing of a defense installation.

Shifts in our procurement will continue to occur and unneeded defense bases and facilities will continue to be closed. But our experience, has been that, given a healthy over-all economy, reasonably smooth adjustments can be made by communities faced with the loss of defense business and that the department can play a useful role by its advice and counsel in helping these communities through the transition period.

Indonesia

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Where is Indonesia going? The question is of concern to Washington and Moscow, London and Peking.

If you ask a Indonesian—the reply is apt to be something like this:

"We are a young country—give us time."

Vastly rich in resources and with 103 million people scattered over 3,000 islands, Indonesia long has been regarded as a pivot to the future in this part of the world.

With the end of World War II, Indonesia began a struggle against centuries of Dutch rule and won its independence in 1949.

Today widespread poverty is common in the midst of natural riches.

"You must remember," says an American resident, "that for years upon years the wealth of this country was drained off to serve 400 families in Holland. They have made accomplishments here in little more than 14 years. It will take time, but Indonesia must be given time."

Others disagree. They say there must be drastic changes, that patience and more time will continue a slide toward complete economic ruin.

Despite government restrictions and bureaucratic shackles, foreign firms are drawn to the wealth of Indonesia—oil, rubber, tin and minerals.

The Dutch are coming back. The British, most recent targets because of the anti-Malaysia campaign, are trying to hag on. Americans are here, along with Germans—East and West, Communist Chinese, Australians, Indians and Japanese.

Near the luxurious Hotel Indonesia, the Japanese, West Germans and Australians are building new embassies, indicating they intend to be around for a while. The sites are only a few blocks from the shell of the British Embassy, burned by rioters last September in an anti-Malaysia frenzy.

In the city of Jakarta, a few television antennas sprout from the sharply sloping red tile roofs. There is one channel, a government station that broadcasts two or three hours at night.

Most Indonesians tell you that where their country is going is nobody's business but Indonesia's. Displaying a fervent brand of nationalism, they emphasize that it definitely is not the concern of Western powers.

The United States, Britain and most of the countries of the West are, in Indonesian terms, old established forces in conflict with the new emerging forces. The new emerging forces, in Indonesian terms, include the Soviet Union, Communist China, countries of the African-Asian bloc, the Middle East and Latin America. Indonesia pictures itself as a leader among these countries.

President Sukarno, who has almost unrestricted powers, has launched Indonesia on the path of so-called guided democracy.

He has so far successfully maintained a precarious power balance between the military and the Communists, the country's two centers of organized strength. Backing first one, then the other, Sukarno has made himself leader in fact as well as title.

So far, Sukarno has been able to extend his internal balancing act to Indonesia's role in the East-West cold war. He has been courted by both sides, taken aid from both, and threatened to swing about dramatically if pushed too hard.

Whether Indonesia approves or not, its future course is of concern in the seats of world power. Recent developments in other parts of Southeast Asia—and in Washington and Peking—overshadow the whole area.

Indonesia may find itself caught up in events that could upset the balance of even the most agile.

Kennedy for Veep

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Maybe the Democratic national convention at Atlantic City isn't going to be a routine affair, after all. It has become quite evident lately that the supporters of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy are determined to make an effort to get him nominated for the vice presidency.

Theoretically, as of the moment, President Johnson is supposed to be making the decision as to who his running mate should be. But if there is a stirring within the Democratic party and the question of solidarity for the campaign itself becomes crucial, Mr. Johnson may have to revise his planning. He may find it necessary to weigh very carefully the merits of the candidacy of Bobby Kennedy in terms of what the advantages and disadvantages would be in selecting the attorney general for the vice-presidential nomination.

It's significant that in an amazingly frank interview this week with Benjamin Bradlee of Newsweek—who was a close friend of the late President Kennedy—the attorney general said some remarkable things about his own position in the Democratic party. He is quoted as having said to Mr. Bradlee:

"Actually, I should think I'd be the last man in the world he (President Johnson) would want... because my name is Kennedy, because he wants a Johnson administration with no Kennedys in it, because we travel different paths, because I suppose some businessmen would object, and because I'd cost them a few votes in the south... I don't think as many as some say, but some."

MR. BRADLEE mentioned in passing that three Southern governors support the attorney general for the vice-presidential nomination, but he didn't name them. He then asked the attorney general what reasons President Johnson might have for putting Mr. Kennedy on the ticket. The attorney general is quoted as having made the following reply:

"Because most of the major political leaders in the North want me. All of them, really. And that's about all I've got going for me."

The interviewer says that Mr. Kennedy made his reply "without embarrassment." This is understandable because the attorney general directed his brother's campaign in 1960 and had a chance to get acquainted with the local leaders of the Democratic party everywhere.

The statements in the interview may be startling to some of the Johnson people, for this is a rather indirect way to announce one's receptiveness to high office. In fact, while there is nothing in the interview to suggest it, the attorney general may well have reasoned that he deserves more consideration from Mr. Johnson than might appear on the surface.

THUS, IF it hadn't been for the decision of Bobby Kennedy's brother at the Democratic national convention at Los Angeles in 1960, Lyndon Johnson would not be president of the United States today. Since John F. Kennedy gave Johnson his chance, political reciprocity raises a question whether Johnson shouldn't return the favor and select Robert Kennedy. That's the way it is being looked at by some of the local political leaders who are behind the candidacy of Bobby Kennedy.

As for qualifications for the vice-presidency—or presidency—of the United States, the attorney general thinks he has them. He served as an intimate adviser to President Kennedy, and is said to consider himself qualified also to be either secretary of state or secretary of defense if there should be a vacancy in these Cabinet offices.

This is mentioned by Mr. Bradlee without attributing the thought to the attorney general himself.

Mr. Johnson, however, is, in effect, thus advised that perhaps any disappointment suffered by the attorney general in not getting the vice-presidential nomination might be assuaged by the appointment of Mr. Kennedy to a higher post in the Cabinet after the November election.

UP TO NOW, it has been assumed by some Johnsonites that it would be a mistake to put Bobby Kennedy on the ticket, as this might alienate Southern votes. But President Johnson's firm espousal of the civil rights bill removes any doubt that Mr. Johnson is lukewarm on the issue. Sen. Goldwater appears to have corded much of the protest vote on this subject anyhow. So it becomes natural for President Johnson to be going the other way to line up the Negro vote as well as the white vote on the "civil rights" side in the Northern states.

Any way it is looked at, the candidacy of Bobby Kennedy for the vice presidency has in it some factors that may dramatically come to the surface when the delegates gather at Atlantic City.

Thoughts

I desire so to conduct the affairs of this administration that if at the end, when I come to lay down the reins of power, I have lost every other friend on earth, I shall at least have one friend left, and that friend shall be down inside of me.—Abraham Lincoln.

"Well, there goes my chance for a par."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 13 years old with a real horrible problem. If you can solve it you are a genius.

My mother begged me to start tap dancing lessons about eight months ago. I didn't want to. She said dancing lessons would help me get poise. She also promised that if I'd take lessons, she would too, and we'd practice together. It sounded like fun so I said okay.

Two weeks ago the dancing instructor assigned routines for the yearly recital. She made up a number for my mother and me to do together—in matching costumes. I thought for sure mother would refuse but to my shock she was very excited about it. All of a sudden she thinks she is Eleanor Powell.

I'd rather die than do a dance number in public with my mother. Please help me, Ann Landers, I can't talk her out of it. —NO SHOW GIRL.

Dear Girl: Don't try to talk her out of it. Simply tell her that you refuse to be a party to something which is bound to make the whole family look ridiculous. Let her know that if she wants to do a solo it is all right with you.

Too Much Together

Dear Ann: Is it possible to see too much of the husband you love?

My husband is a certified public accountant. When he went in business for himself two years ago we decided to have the back porch closed in and made into an office. It would save him office rent and make part of our home expenses deductible.

This worked out fine for about six months, and then he began to get on my nerves. He wants me to wait on him all day long. When he has a client I have to serve them coffee or cold drinks, or lunch. He is always after me to do a little filing, a little typing and a little telephoning. If he misplaces some papers I have to drop everything and go hunt for them.

Now that he can afford an office downtown I want him to have one. Am I being selfish as he says? — AROUND THE CLOCK DUTY.

Dear Duty: Your husband is selfish to expect you to be on call 24 hours a day. He's asking you to be a housekeeper, wife, mother, short-order cook, typist, filing clerk and telephone operator — and it's too much. Some men must conduct their businesses from home but a CPA should not be operating from a back porch if he can afford a downtown office.

Executive Type

Dear Ann: I'm a woman executive (over 30) and considered interesting looking, competent and the independent type. I've let a few good marital prospects get away but frankly, the number of men who have dropped me first is about three to one.

The man I'm going with now is attractive, moderately successful, has excellent character and wants to marry me. Two problems: One, he talks constantly during movies, plays concerts. It drives me crazy. Two, he is considerably younger than I am.

Please don't tell me to make this decision by myself. If I could decide by myself I wouldn't be writing to you. —GEMINI.

Dear Gem: People who have a habit of talking during performances can be silenced with a couple of sentences, so this is no big deal.

The real hooker is how MUCH younger is the man? Your omission of the vital statistic suggests there is quite a gap, and that this is the reason you can't decide. What are the facts, Lady?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Johnson Urges Americans Back Civil Rights Program

By The Associated Press
Reaction to the new civil rights law ranges from praise of the legislation as a "Magna Carta of human rights" to a prediction of "real trouble" ahead.

President Johnson, who signed the law shortly after Congress completed action on it Thursday, appealed to all Americans to "join this effort to bring justice and hope to all our people."

Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson said at Jackson that he expects "some real trouble" when Negroes seek desegregation of public accommodations in that state under provisions of the new law. Answering a question at a news conference, the governor said he did not think restaurant and hotel owners should comply with the law. He said many people feel the law is unconstitutional and "it should be tested in the courts."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference indicated their groups will speed tests of compliance and go to court if necessary.

Wilkins called the law the "Magna Carta of human rights."

King said Thursday was "a great day for America and a great day for democracy."

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama said: "I believe the legislation is unconstitutional and if unchallenged will result in the destruction of individual liberty and freedom in this nation."

He made the declaration in a telegram to Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges in declining an invitation by Hodges to participate in conferences on putting the law into effect. AFL-CIO President George Meany said signing of the law "represents a challenge to American society — a challenge that calls for the full realization in fact of the rights now established by law. The trade union movement, like every other segment of American life, must do its part in meeting that challenge."

Mayor Albert Boutwell of Birmingham, Ala., said, "Nobody will bother the Negroes as long as they seek remedies available to them under the new law."

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta said that for the last 100 years the Negro has had to learn to be a courteous and polite loser, and "now the Negro has the responsibility to be a courteous, gracious and law-abiding winner."

United School Board To Act on Budget

Superintendent Chester Brautigam will present the 1965 budget to the United Local District Board of Education Monday night for its consideration.

Action on teaching personnel is also expected to be taken. Brautigam said a mathematics teacher who can also instruct in industrial arts, a junior high physical education teacher and coach, a beginning Spanish teacher and an art teacher are among those needed before the start of the fall term.

Also on the agenda are further discussion of the proposed $630,000 bond issue for the building expansion program and representation at two summer educational conventions.

THIS IS IT! — First look at a full-scale model of "Public Satellite No. 1" was obtained at Hughes Aircraft, Culver City, Calif., where the relay device is being built. It is shown in photo at left. whether he thought restaurant and hotel owners and the like should comply with the new law, the governor said: "I don't think they should. I think it should be tested in the courts. A great many people feel it is unconstitutional."

In other parts of the South, however, businessmen and community leaders expressed a willingness to go along with the new law, even if they don't like it.

The President announced he is nominating Leroy Collins, former governor of Florida, to direct the community relations service established by the law and that he is appointing an advisory committee to assist him. Collins is stepping out as president of the National Association of Broadcasters to take the post.

The final act in the congressional civil rights drama came only three hours earlier when the House voted, 289 to 126, to accept the Senate's amendments.

Spectators packed in the galleries, some even sitting on the stairs, clapped and cheered speakers on both sides, in violation of the House rules. But with the members busily clapping and cheering their own spokesmen, no effort was made to quiet the crowd.

At 6 a.m. today village police received a call to investigate a suspect at Locust Grove, just outside of Lisbon, but a search failed to locate the man.

Police learned the abandoned car was stolen from the Twin City Hospital parking lot at Denison last night. They said the description of youth was similar to that of a man who held up a service station in Canton.

A need for rain, however, exists as the top of the ground is dried up as a result of the recent hot days, Copeland pointed out.

tract theoreticians of this Democratic administration have been so mesmerized by commodity controls that they have forgotten their ultimate concern — the individual farmer."

As part of his own farm program Scranton said he would seek, if elected president, "greater freedom in our agricultural economy" that would allow "decisions of investment and production" to operate.

Scranton said he would be opposed to any abrupt elimination of farm subsidies, but indicated he would seek a readjustment of commodity programs.

Scranton will meet in Harrisburg, Pa., Sunday with Henry Cabot Lodge and the two will fly west together in the quest for delegate support, a Lodge spokesman said in Washington. They will go to Chicago Sunday night and will fly on to St. Louis for a meeting with Missouri and Southern Illinois delegates and a talk, and will move to Milwaukee Monday night for a meeting with Wisconsin delegates Tuesday morning and a luncheon address.

"Be ready to make a start—even though a modest one—by July 4th," the instructions said, and then listed rules for testing procedure.

In St. Augustine, Fla., a spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said tests would not be made there until at least the middle of next week, while a truce is in effect. Then businessmen will be asked to comply, he said. If they don't, he said lawsuits will be started.

West Branch Board Interviews Three

The final three of five applicants for the post of principal at West Branch High School were interviewed by the Board of Education Thursday night with a goal of naming a replacement for Ramon Scott by Wednesday night.

Executive Head Clinton Heacock has been urging the early hiring of the new administrator so that scheduling for the fall term can begin and an assistant principal to replace Burt Hendricks may be employed. The board felt the new principal should have a voice in the selection of an aide.

Consideration of salary hikes for cooks and secretaries was also scheduled for last night's special session, but action was postponed until next week. Pay of 15 custodians was increased Monday night.

The next regular monthly meeting will be held July 14.

Stockholders May Lose Investments In Insurance Firm

CLEVELAND (AP)—William R. Morris, state insurance superintendent, says some 500 stockholders in Investment Life Insurance Co. of America stand a "pretty good" chance of losing their entire $2-million investment.

But policyholders of the Cleveland-based firm are not in jeopardy, Morris added Thursday. He said reserves are on hand to pay off potential death claims and other policy obligations.

Morris attributed his dismal forecast for stockholders to new claims against an already encumbered total of about $1 million in assets.

The new claims are likely to scare off companies with a desire to buy or merge with investment life, Morris said.

Two legal actions have clouded the company's future. Realtor R. A. Gall and insurance man Thomas J. Unik said they will ask Common Pleas Court in Franklin County to nullify $200,000 stock purchases each of them made in January.

Morris, who has been operating the firm under a court order since April 8, has told stockholders the company's officers filed allegedly false financial statements in 1962 and 1963.

A second legal action, filed in U. S. District Court here Thursday, involves the Unik and Gall stock and another $200,000 worth belonging to Stephen L. Segedy, vice president of Investment Life.

In those cases, Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. sued each for payment of $200,000 the bank claims it loaned with Investment Life stock as collateral.

believe that desegregation of the state and local affiliates is desirable and inevitable.

The debate has been on how this can best be brought about. The "action now" group says, in effect, that the South won't move without the pressure of a deadline. Many of their opponents say an ultimatum will only freeze attitudes and possibly force thousands of NEA members to leave the organization.

Backers of the amendment softened their original position as the vote neared.

Instead of automatic expulsion from the NEA, the amendment was changed to read "the executive committee shall have discretionary powers to take whatever steps are necessary."

TV-Radio Today

By ALAN GILL
A Memory of Behan

To my knowledge, Brendan Behan recorded only one radio commercial in his brief and extraordinary career. It was in New York in October, 1959, when Behan was on the boards ("The Hostage"), at the time he was writing ("The Hostage") and on the wagon (water). The product he was plugging was the Sunday drama section of the Herald Tribune and there was no fee involved. Behan did it because "Thorburn had contributed one (James Thurber had a room a couple of floors below the Behans) at the Algonquin Hotel in those days; and besides, Behan admired the newspaper."

I bring the matter up just now because Behan, though he was tucked away into the ground many weeks ago, has a habit of dancing a jig in his memory. There's a book of his just published, "The Scarperer," and I suppose "Richard's Cork Leg" will be along one of these days. I keep hoping that TV will present a Behan work or two — "The Quare Fellow," possibly — the way it has come around to producing a bit of Dylan Thomas now and then.

"BRENDAN BEHAN is my name"; that's the way the commercial started out. I had written it, rather closely timed to a reading of 60 seconds, as an example of what we wanted, nothing more. But Behan studied it closely and said it would do, it would do. (You see, I was in a different line of work that year.) Finally, in a tongue-crimpled with mumbly, stammering, um's and uh's, he began.

"Brendan O Beachain is aimd do," he said in Gaelic, as the account executive glance-ed quickly at the sound engineer and the sound engineer rounded his eyes at me. "Brendan Behan is muh name. I'm a Dublin mon and somewhat notorious in certain quarters." He pronounced the last word as "carters" and so far, so good. He then added a line of his own — "I'm not a Dubliner, which is a middle-class word made up by James Joyce" — before returning to the script: "I write notorious plays like 'The Hostage' and I'm told I say notorious things. Well, let me say one now. From across the water, you know, the names of a few of your American writers — and here he broke off to throw in a parenthetical thought, "cricketers," as we call them in England; I suppose you call them 'baseballers' here" — "do get through the customs man and we know all about them."

THERE FOLLOWED a salute to John Crosby, then Art Buchwald, who, the script said, "can whistle up a laugh on his typewriter." And it is here that Behan went off on a zigzag course over the map of Paris. "Art Buchwald," he said, "who has the distinction of having given me an interview or havin' caused me to give him an interview at the corner of the Rue de Varenne and the Cafe Royale at the corner of the Rue de Varenne, I think —" He paused to scratch his head. "—On the Boulevard Raspail and the Boulevard St. Germain in Paris, which revived me almost from the dead. I had been celebrating Paris. A play of mine had opened there called 'The Hostage' but under different circumstances. I'd seen them as a tramp and a house painter and now I was seeing them as an international — an internationally famous and deservedly notorious playwright."

Then Behan went back to the typewritten sheet and finished reading it pretty much the way it was written. He sat back with a long and relieved sigh. A lengthy pause had ticked by before someone said feebly, "Well, thank you, Mr. Behan, that was wonderful." The account executive, his face appearing a bit stricken as he looked at his stopwatch, has just clocked the commercial, from first word to last, at 2 minutes 17 seconds.

BUT THAT'S THE IRISH for you. And perhaps that's why we'll never hear any words Behan wrote coming over the small TV screen. TV, like soft-boiled eggs, must be right on time; and Behan never let time contain him. He was too busy being sociable.

At the door Behan told me how much my family would like Ireland, and wouldn't we please celebrate Christmas at the Behan house in Dublin? He jotted down the street address and gave very precise instructions and seemed extremely pleased, God bless him, over the prospect of having a few Yanks drop in for roast goose and drinks.

Smith's Homer Gives Angels 10-6 Win Over Orioles

Yanks Nip A's In 15th Frame

Boston Outslugged 15-9 by Minnesota

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Smith, baseball's newest Cinderella, hasn't turned into a pumpkin after all.

Smith, who stepped off the pitchers' mound into a slugging outfielder's role, clouted a grand slam homer in the ninth inning that boosted the Los Angeles Angels to a 10-6 triumph over the American League-leading Baltimore Orioles Thursday night.

Smith also belted a single and two doubles and drove in two other runs as the Angels broke their five-game losing streak.

The 25-year-old wizard, who didn't do much for the Angels with his pitching arm, won three consecutive games with his bat during the team's recent 11-game winning streak.

After the amazing outburst, though, Smith tailed off considerably, as if midnight had struck. Before Thursday's game he had only five hits in his last 27 times at bat. Worse, he managed only two hits in 16 times at bat during the Angels' losing streak.

The sudden slump dropped his average from a season's high of .340 to .286.

Just as suddenly, though, Willie rediscovered his glass slipper, or bat, and shattered the Orioles.

His hit and RBI production was his biggest for one game and increased his average to .317 and his RBI total to 23—21 coming in the last 17 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York nipped Kansas City 4-3 in 15 innings, Minnesota outslugged Boston 15-9 and Detroit mauled Cleveland 9-1.

In the National League, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 6-5, Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 3-2, Cincinnati trounced Chicago 7-0, St. Louis trimmed Milwaukee 4-3 and Houston whipped New York 7-1.

The Orioles' loss cut their lead to three games over the Yankees. Jack Brandt hit a pair of two-out, two-run homers, the second coming in the eighth and tying the game 6-6.

Miller, now 4-2, hadn't lost since April 23. Albie Pearson opened the Angels' ninth with a single, went to second on Miller's throwing error and took third on a walk. Smith then blasted his first major league grand slam.

Hector Lopez drilled a bases-loaded single in the 15th inning for the Yankees' victory. Mickey Mantle triggered the winning rally with a triple while two intentional walks by Dan Pfister filled the bases.

The Yankees tied the game leadoff homer in the eighth. Mantle drove in New York's first two runs with a fifth-inning double. Rocky Colavito scored the Athletics' first run in their two-run second and tripled home a run in the third.

Minnesota mauled the Red Sox for the second straight day. Don Mincher led the assault, driving in five runs with a three-run homer and a single. Tony Oliva had three hits, including a three-run homer in the first inning. Jim Katt won his ninth game against three losses.

Mickey Lolich held the Indians to five hits as they lost their sixth straight game. The Tigers scored five runs in the second inning, three on a homer by Gates Brown. Cleveland scored in the second on Chico Salmon's double following a two-out error by Dick McAuliffe.

Cards Force Spahn From Mound, Beat Braves 4-3

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Where has Warren's Wonder gone?

For the ninth consecutive time Warren (The Wonder) Spahn, Milwaukee's 43-year-old pitching marvel, trudged from the mound Thursday after failing to finish what he started as the Braves lost to St. Louis 4-3.

So, within hours, Milwaukee fans were forced to wonder whether the Braves were ready to hit the road and whether Spahn had reached the end of it.

First came still another report that the Braves would be playing in Atlanta next year. And then Spahn went out to the mound against the Cardinals, looking for his first victory in a month and his first complete game since May 19.

Instead, the winningest left-hander in major league history was knocked out in the seventh inning and tagged with his third straight loss. He now is bogged down with a 5-8 record and a staggering 4.89 earned run average.

But what was most indicative of Spahn's problems was his continuing failure to register a complete game. The 13-time, 20-game winner, whose career record stands at 355 victories and 224 losses, holds a major league record for complete games, having led the National League in that department nine times.

While Spahn's ineffectiveness continued to plague the Braves, the first-place San Francisco Giants suffered a temporary setback when Willie Mays was sidelined in the first inning against Pittsburgh because of an upset stomach.

With Willie absent, Orlando Cepeda took command, slugged a two-run homer and launched a five-run sixth inning rally that beat the Pirates 6-5. The victory kept the Giants 1½ games in front of the Philadelphia Phillies, who edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-0 behind Jim Maloney's four-hit pitching and Houston made the most of five New York errors for a 7-1 victory over the Mets.

In the American League, the Los Angeles Angels knocked off first-place Baltimore 10-6, the New York Yankees edged Kansas City 4-3 in 15 innings, Minnesota outslugged Boston 15-9 and Detroit walloped Cleveland 9-1. The Chicago White Sox and Washington were not scheduled.

Spahn, backed by homers by Rico Carty and Gene Oliver, led 3-2 going into the seventh. But Julian Javier, who earlier homered, got the Cardinals started with a single.

Pinch hitter Charlie James then smacked a double that scored Javier with the tying run and when pinch-swinger Carl Warwick followed with a single, Spahn got the hook. Lou Brock's sacrifice fly brought in the winning run.

The Pirates led 2-1 when Willie McCovey singled in the sixth and Cepeda followed with his 14th homer, putting the Giants ahead. Before the inning was over three more runs came in on singles by Jim Hart, Jose Pagan, Jesus Alou and Hal Lanier, a walk and a wild pitch. Bob Hendley, 8-4, won it with Bob Shaw's relief help after Gene Alley homered for the Pirates.

The Phillies collected only five hits but made the most of them, scoring all their runs in the third against Phil Ortega. A walk, John Callison's homer, an error by Derrell Griffith and Clay Dalrymple's single got the job done.

Frank Howard hit his 19th homer for the Dodgers, a 470-foot shot off Chris Short, who brought his record to 7-4 with Jack Baldschun's relief help.

Maloney, bringing his record to 7-3, had a no-hitter going until Dick Bertell led off the sixth with a single. He also had a 6-0 lead — five runs scoring in the third inning. Frank Robinson's two-run triple was the big hit in the uprising.

Pete Rose drove in two runs for the Reds with a pair of singles and Marty Keough closed out the scoring in the seventh with a homer.

Bob Aspromonte was the key man for the Colts, delivering three singles and driving in two runs. His third hit climaxed a four-run seventh inning in which the Mets committed four errors.

The victory went to Ken Johnson, who evened his record at 7-7 with a five-hitter. The Mets lone run scored in the seventh on doubles by George Altman and Ed Kranepool.

Top Stars Shoot Par Or Better In Whitemarsh Open

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP) — The young, the aged, the infirm and the fatigued—it didn't seem to make any difference as the pro golfers romped over the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club Thursday in the first round of the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open.

Almost all the top players shot par or better.

The young were represented by Tom Shaw of Portland, Ore., freshman player on the pro circuit. The aged would be Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, who admitted he was beginning to doubt that life begins at 40.

The infirm was Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, who had to take an injection so he could play. Champagne Tony Lema described himself as the mentally and physically fatigued.

These four lead the field of 150 into the second round, each with six under par 66s. None was exactly confident he'd look back at the field after today's second round in the 72-hole competition.

Not after what happened on the 6,807-yard course Thursday. In all, 55 golfers shot sub par golf, from the leaders, 66 to 71. Twenty more carded even par. Birdies and eagles came thick and fast.

Just behind the top four in the battle for the $24,000 first place money came Larry Mowry of Portland, Ore.; veteran pro Dave Marr and Tommy Jacobs, each with 67.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, with an eagle on the 17th, was two strokes behind at 68; PGA winner Jack Nicklaus at 69, and U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi with a 71. Nicklaus lost a stroke when he hit water at the 17th.

Rodriguez, who tore ligaments and tendons in his left thumb and wrist at the tournament of champions in Las Vegas last May, received an injection of cortisone.

UCT, Moose, Fisher News Win

No-Hitter Hurlled By Scott Twirler

Ken Stein pitched a no-hitter for Scott's Sporting Goods in Class G competition to feature a 3-2 win over the Knights of Columbus in Junior Baseball League activity Thursday night.

Two of the evening's games ended in top-sided victories and another concluded in a tie with darkness calling a halt to play. Stein had 17 strikeouts and his teammate, Mickey Linder, got two base hits. The losing pitcher, John Lantz, had eight strikeouts.

In Class G play, United Commercial Travelers' whipped Hunt's Industrial Union, 9-5 with Floyd Crawford smashing in a home run and betting a single for the winners. Randy Hanzlick of UCT singled and tripled.

In Class H, Jim Shivers clouted a grand slam homer in helping the Moose Lodge to a 27-5 victory over Quaker Manufacturing. Bob Baker also added a home run with one on.

Sharp play by the Moose featured a triple play against the Quakers in the bottom of the second.

Taking an equally bad beating in Class E was Famous Market which was snowed under by CIO 3816, Eljer, 20-1. Pitcher Bob Luttmers had 10 strikeouts in the rout. He, Bob Rozeski with a homer, Reed Votaw and Ron Parolanti were the batting axes of the night that insured the CIO win.

In Class F, Mullins and Eljer tied at 8-8 before darkness forced a finish to the game. For Eljer Farb Tinsley lambasted two home runs.

Fisher News edged Electric Furnace, 10-8, with the game tied at 5-5 at the end of the third inning. Val Altomare was the winning pitcher with Sam Wagner, who got eight strikeouts, and Skip Brightwell was on the mound for EF.

Destruction Derby At Canfield Tonight

They will be smashing and crashing cars all over the place at Canfield Speedway tonight and they will be doing it deliberately. It's the Ohio State championship destruction derby.

Four preliminary events will precede the grand finale. Then to cap off the evening, Canfield will hold its annual fireworks show.

Tomorrow night another big program of late models and amateurs is billed. Some 125 cars will be on hand for the 12-race card. Jim Bickertstaff of Mineral Ridge and Bill Forney of Youngstown will head an outstanding list of late model pilots.

DIES DURING GAME

ARL TON, Tex. (AP) — David Strange, 22, died Thursday night while playing in a church league softball game. A line drive struck him in the heart area of the chest.

Reds Blast Cubs, Regain Third Place

CINCINNATI (AP) — When Jim Maloney's curve ball is as good as his fast one, he's a hard pitcher to beat.

The Chicago Cubs found that out Thursday night as the Cincinnati Reds defeated them, 7-0, and again took over third place in the National League pennant race.

Maloney hurling in the same form he had a season ago when he posted a 23-7 record, allowed only four hits. Chicago did not get a safety until the sixth inning, while the Reds scored five times in the third inning.

The tall righthander blunted the bat of hard-hitting Billy Williams, turning him back four times. Williams, who a week ago was leading the league in batting, has had only one hit—a home run Wednesday night—in his last 15 times at bat.

It was Maloney's seventh victory against eight losses this season, and his first shutout.

The Reds, with a home run by Marty Keough, a triple by Frank Robinson and Pete Rose's three hits in four at bats, had little trouble scoring the necessary runs.

St. Louis is in Cincinnati tonight for the first of a three-game series. Starting pitchers were announced as Bob Gibson (6-5) and John Tsitouris (4-5).

Indians Mauled 9-1 by Tigers

Defeat Sixth In Row for Tribe

CHICAGO (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts rejoins the slumping Cleveland Indians tonight and maybe he can help acting manager George Strickland get them back on the winning track.

Detroit whipped the Tribe 9-1 Thursday night and the loss was Cleveland's sixth in a row and 12th in the last 15 games. It dropped the Indians to eighth place, 13 games back of league-leading Baltimore.

This will be Tebbetts' first appearance in the dugout since he suffered a heart attack April 1 in spring training. He'll work with Strickland, who's been having his troubles lately, until Birdie feels he can take full command.

Once again the Tigers mauled Pedro Ramos, first of four Cleveland pitchers and the loser. He's now 4-6 and has been beaten three times by Detroit this season.

Ramos allowed one run in the first inning and got into a real jam in the second when the Tigers cracked the game wide open. Dick McAuliffe and ex-Indian Bubba Phillips opened with singles.

Southpaw Mickey Lolich, the winning pitcher, tried to sacrifice and was safe on an error by John Romano. Billy Bruton then singled home two runs and chased Ramos from the mound.

Lee Stange, acquired recently from Minnesota, relieved Ramos with the Indians trailing 3-1. Gates Brown belted a homer off Stange.

The Indians got their only run in the second. Billy Moran reached base on a two-out error by McAuliffe and Chic Saltn by McAuliffe and Chico Salmon doubled him home.

Dick Donovan (3-5) will oppose third-pitcher Chicago tonight in the opener of a four-game series.

203 Entered In Ohio Amateur

Oberlin Teen-Ager To Defend Title

By FRITZ HOWELL Associated Press Sports Writer CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A champion-filled field of 203, including 17 public links entrants, opens play Tuesday at Maketewah Country Club in quest of Ohio's 58th amateur golf championship.

Bob Bourne, teen-age star from Oberlin who paced the play-for-gun contingent in last week's Cleveland Open, will defend the title he won a year ago at Elyria.

Qualifying rounds of 18 holes are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday over the 6,657-yard par 35-72 Maketewah course, with the low 63 joining Bourne in match play starting Thursday. Double 18-hole matches are slated Thursday and Friday, the 36-hole semi-finals Saturday, and the finals over the long route Sunday.

Ed Preisler of Cleveland, current pre-senior king and winner of the amateur in 1946, will make another try. Other former winners in the field include Tony Blom Jr., of Cincinnati, 1959 and 1962; Dan Carmichael of Columbus, 1960, and Walter Stahl of Cleveland, 1961.

Adding color to the annual clash are Pandel Savic of Columbus, who quarterbacked Ohio State in the Rose Bowl; professional grid star and former Ohio Stater Dick LeBeau, along with his dad and brother of London; Rick Jones of Columbus, former Ohio State NCAA champion who has regained his amateur status after a short professional stint; E. W. (Hoagy) Carmichael of Springfield, former pre-seniors champ; young Alex Antonio Jr., state junior and former high school victor; Bobby Littler Jr., of Athens, former junior champion and runner-up to Blom in 1962 at Dayton; Len Pietras of Toledo, former state public links champion; Dr. Harry Duccilli Jr., of Cincinnati, current Queen City champion and runnerup to Blom in 1959, and Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, former pre-seniors winner.

Expected to make a strong run for the crown are such standouts as George McManis Jr. of Cincinnati, John Busemeyer of Wyoming, Arthur Hudnut of Elyria, Frank Gurasci of Columbus, Jim Logue of Springfield, Carl Unis of Cleveland, Danny Dell of Cincinnati and Bill Petersen of Cleveland.

Maketewah, with plenty of bounds possibilities, will offer a trouble-packed test for the amateurs who start their warfare at 7:30 a.m. in the qualifying rounds.

Curriculum Guide At Leetonia Unique

LEETONIA — Concept: There are many kinds of seeds. In each seed there is a baby plant that can grow in soil and water.

Teaching suggestions: Make a seed collection with pictures illustrating each seed.

Supplies: Seeds, magazines, paste and scissors.

This is a sample of a new curriculum guide produced by the Leetonia school administration and teachers to help instructors in all subjects and at all levels.

"WE HOPE IT WILL BE a real teaching aid that will lend continuity to our course of study," Superintendent Victor Wood said as the guides neared completion.

The thick booklets full of ideas for the instructor have been a long time in the planning and best from the experience and judgment of many teachers.

After the project was sanctioned by the Board of Education, teacher committees were named to compile the voluminous material.

On the lower grades science and math committee were Mrs. Saran Calvin, Mrs. Adelia Muselman, Mrs. Franchon Buchanan, Miss Esther Yoder, Miss Ruth Bauman, Gordon Haskin, Mrs. Shirley Harmon, Dave Pavlansky and John Gonyula.

Other elementary and junior high sections were prepared by the following: special education, Mrs. Lela McKenzie and Mrs. Maude Driscoll; English, Mrs. Nelle Morris, Mrs. Nellie Ebersole and Mrs. Mildred Painter; physical education, Paul Frank; reading, Mrs. Ebersole, Miss Hazel Ginther and Mrs. Edith Friedburg; French, Mrs. Roberta Woodall; social studies, Mrs. Mary Edgerton, Mrs. Nelle Morris and Mrs. Mildred Painter.

What Is Freedom?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—America announced its independence 188 years ago Saturday.

Ever since then it has sought to celebrate a safe and sane Fourth of July, but in many ways the holiday remains unsafe if not insane.

Fireworks now are banned in most states, except under controlled conditions, but the auto isn't. And the auto now takes about as many lives over the holiday weekend as fireworks did at the turn of the century. Deaths ran into the hundreds then; they still do.

Perhaps no one in a thousand Americans sits down and reads again Thomas Jefferson's basic statement of our human rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Behind our celebrations, wise or unwise, is the idea of freedom. But what is freedom? It might be worth a few moments on our most national of holidays to ponder what some of the great minds of the past have had to say on this subject.

"No one is free save Jove"—Aeschylus.

"No man is wholly free. He is a slave to wealth, or to fortune, or the laws, or the people restrain him from acting according to his will alone"—Euripides.

"None can love freedom heartily but good men; the rest love not freedom, but license"—John Milton.

"A free man is he that, is those things which by his strength and wit he is able to do, is not hindered to do what he has a will to"—Thomas Hobbes.

"It is not good to be too free. It is not good to have everything one wants"—Pascal.

"Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow"—Lord Byron.

"Every man has freedom to do all that he wills, provided he infringes not the equal freedom of any other man"—Spencer.

"Freedom exists only where the people take care of the government"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Better to be a free bird than a captive king"—Danish proverb.

"Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and, under a just God, cannot long retain it"—Abraham Lincoln.
